M'DOUGAL'S PLANS TO BE EXAMINED.

WHALEBACK WAR SHIP AMONG THE POSSIBILITIES.

A Committee Has Been Appointed to Look Into the Scheme of the Superior Navel Architect—The Jenkins Investigation Is Now Likely to Be Ordered.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. [Special]—Secretary Herbert corroborates the statement that a naval board has been appointed into the McDougal plan for whaleback warships. The McGann resolution to investigate Judge Jenkins came to the front in the house yesterday. Mr. Boatner, chairman of the judiciary subcommittee, brought it up by asking that it be withdrawn and that the subcommittee's resolution be substituted for it and placed on the calendar. While the clerk was reading the substitute Mr. Culbertson, chairman of the judiciary committee, whispered to Mr. Boatner to withdraw his substitute and wait for an opportunity to get it considered by unanimous consent. By doing that the long delay that would ensue ere the matter was reached on the calendar would be avoided. Boatner saw the point and withdraw the substitute. He will now wait for a favorable opportunity to get it up by unanimous consent. That opportunity may present itself at any time.

There is every reason to believe that the house will order the investigation. It is possible that those interested in introducing the resolution for investigation will make no charge of corruption. But it is understood that even so, the friends of Jenkins will insist that the resolution itself is tantamount to a hint that corruption exists. The investigation will be very thorough and will probably take considerable time. McGann feels confident that it will at least show that Jenkins has overstepped the law.

DEBATE ON SEIGNIORAGE.

Mr. Reed Has a Little Tilt with Chairman Bland.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Among the executive communications laid before the house yesterday was one recommending an appropriation for constructing approaches to the marine hospital in Chicago, and another suggesting that the statue of Liberty Enlightening the World at New York be used as a beacon.

Messrs. Quigg and Straus, members-elect from New York city, to succeed Messrs. Fellows and Fitch, were sworn in, although their credentials had not yet arrived.

After some time spent in discussing silver Chairman Hatch notified Mr. Walker that there would be objections made to an extension of time. Messrs Livingston and Kilgore asked that more time be allowed, and Mr. Bland said that he was willing to grant fifteen minutes, but no more.

Mr. Reed asked that thirty minutes more be allowed Mr. Walker.

After it had been agreed that Mr. Walker should be given an extension of twenty minutes the chairman asked if there was objection, and consent was given.

Mr. Reed was here accused by Mr. Bland with having the intention of breaking the quorum at every opportunity and Mr. Reed retorted in no very gentle manner. The chairman finally had both gentlemen take their seat.

Mr. Bowers (rep., Cal.) spoke briefly and said he believed the country could stand $50,000,000 additional silver certificates. He would advocate at all times and under all circumstances the free coinage of silver. He would offer an amendment providing for the establishment of postal savings banks.

Mr. Brossius (rep., Pa.) spoke against the bill. He said it was but a step backward toward the danger from which the country had escaped only a few months ago, when the Sherman act was repealed. He was unalterably opposed to the further issuance of inferior money, which would add to the difficulties attending the maintenance of the parity between gold and silver and still further imperil the credit of the government.

Mr. Rawlins (dem., Utah) spoke in favor of the bill, but before concluding his remarks the committee rose and the house adjourned.

W. C. T. U. IN THE SENATE.

Remonstrance Presented Against a Government Tax on Whisky.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Mr. Frye of Maine presented a remonstrance from the National W. C. T. U. in the senate yesterday against the tax on whisky, the remonstrance being signed by officers of the union in forty-four states, three territories and the District of Columbia. These women, Mr. Frye said, did not believe that the United States ought to enter into copartnership in either the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors.

The "unfinished business" was then taken up, it being the house bill requiring railroad companies in the territories to maintain stations at towns established by the interior department.

Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) supported the bill. He said the agents and attorneys of the Rock Island road were invading the capitol, trying to influence legislation. It was costing the railroad company more money to fight the bill than it would cost to establish depots and stations in the different towns.

Mr. Peffer (pop., Kan.) said that the people of Kansas were interested in those town sites and were not unrepresented in Washington. They were as ably represented as the railroad corporation was.

Mr. Call (dem., Fla.), in advocating the bill, argued in favor of government control of railways or of limitation of their earnings to a smaller percentage of their actual cost.

Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) obtained the floor, but yielded for a motion to go into executive session. The bill, therefore, went over till to-day. The senate after a short executive session adjourned.

Report on Hawaii Being Prepared.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The senate committee on foreign relations held a meeting yesterday. Chairman Morgan informed the members that he had begun the preparation of his report upon the Hawaiian investigation and had it under way. He asked for a meeting of the subcommittee which has had this subject under consideration Saturday next, when he said he might be able to present a rough draft of the report, though he had not gotten along with it sufficiently to promise certainly. If a minority report should be made necessary by conflicting views as seems probable, there would be some delay. The testimony will not be made public until the report is agreed upon or possibly not until it is presented to the senate.

Anti-Option Fight Soon to Be On.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Congressman Hatch is ready to take up the fight for the anti-option bill at the first opportunity. Mr. Hatch's first move will be a motion to change the reference of the bill from the ways and means committee, where it now reposes, to the committee on agriculture, of which the author of the anti-option bill is chairman. The Missouri congressman is sure that a majority of the members favor the change of reference. Mr. Hatch says the last anti-option bill was drawn by men outside of congress. He believes this was a weak point and to overcome it he himself prepared the present bill.

Peckham Nomination in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Much interest is manifested in the Peckham case, which will come up in the senate today for consideration. There are plenty of predictions, but no one not identified as a leader in the fight will risk his reputation as a prophet by attempting to forecast the vote.

BOY DIED OF RABIES GIVEN BY A PUP.

CHILD BITTEN BY A PET DIES IN AGONY.

Case of Hydrophobia In Bentonville, Wis., That Presents Several Peculiar Aspects—The Disease Was Given By a Dog Born After a Rabid Animal Had Been Killed.

OSHKOSH, Feb. 15.—The famous resolution of the council compelling tramps to work three hours each day has so far proven a failure, notwithstanding an effort of the city officials to carry it out. Although it is three days since the resolution went into effect and an attempt to make the tramps work did not result as expected, the climax was not reached until this morning, when a policeman in charge of four men shoveling snow on Main street had the pleasure of seeing his workmen throw their shovels and defy the law and city officials. When they get breakfast before they are taken out the tramps refuse to work, and the condition is the same when breakfast is deferred until three hours' work has been done. After the gang had shovelled snow half an hour this morning one of the tramps, half frozen, looked up at the officer and asked how long he and his companion would have to work before being given their breakfast. He was told that breakfast would be served at 10 o'clock. The four men stopped, looked about them for a time and one of them said, "Then we"ll quit; we are willing to work, but we want victuals of some kind to do it on, and what is more we are not fools." With this the men left to beg breakfast around town.

VALKYRIE TO TRY IT AGAIN.

What the Remodeling of the English Boat Means.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 15.—James McFarlane, late with the shipbuilding firm of Henderson & Co., Glasgow, in whose yards Designer Watson looked after the fitting out of the Valkyrie, says that the Valkyrie will try it again for the American cup. "Depend upon it," said Mr. McFarlane, "Lord Dunraven's ship is not being fitted out with new copper, more ballast, and increased sail for the mere purpose of cruising about Long Island sound. She will again be a competitor for the cup."

Against the Mulct Law.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 15.—Large delegations of republicans arrived yesterday from Dubuque, Davenport, Clinton, Keokuk, Burlington and Council Bluffs to present their views in regard to proposed legislation upon the temperance question. They held a meeting in the afternoon and decided to ask the passage of a local option license law and to protest against any form of a mulct law. In the evening another meeting of the visiting delegations was held for the purpose of appointing a steering committee to remain here and look after the interests of the localities desiring relief. This committee will consider the bills now before both bodies on this subject and prepare a bill from them which shall express their wishes.

TRAMPS QUIT WORK IN OSHKOSH.

THEY GOT NO BREAKFAST AND REBELLED.

Four Vagrants Defy the Officials to Compel Them to Shovel Snow—Would Work If Given a Meal but Refused to Labor While Hunger Gnawed.

BENTONVILLE, Wis., Feb. 15.—The bite of a puppy proved fatal to Willie, the ten-year old son of A. K. Etris, a citizen of this county, living four miles east of here. The child was bitten on the wrist about seven weeks ago by a pup he was playing with. The pup died the next day after the boy was bitten but never showed any signs of rabies. Some time before the pup was born a dog passed through the county that was supposed to be mad and bit the mother of the pup and two hogs. The hogs afterwards went mad and died, but the bitch never showed and signs of being mad. She gave birth to three pups which all died about the same time and in the same manner, none of them ever having the appearance of being mad. Four days ago the boy complained of his wrist and arm paining him and Dr. C. E. Hurley, of this place was sent for, who immediately pronounced it a case of hydrophobia.

KNIVES USED AT A DANCE.

Missouri Cowboy Starts a Bloody Melee at Shamokin, Pa.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Feb. 15.—A bloody fight, in which several Shamokin and Trevorton persons were terribly cut and bruised, occurred at Fisher's hotel last night, where a number of sleighing parties had congregated. With the exception of Harry Lewis, who received a frightful knife-thrust in the neck, all will recover. A list of those most seriously wounded is as follows:

FISHER, MRS. ZEPH, head and arm cut.
JONES, EPHRAIM, ear cut off.
LEWIS, HARRY, head and neck cut.
LITTLE, RICHARD, face cut and body bruised.
WILLIAMS, SPRIGGINS, face cut and shoulder dislocated.
WINTERS, JOHN, face badly cut.

The fight began over an insult offered to a young woman of this place by a Missouri man, "Dick" Lytle, who is a cowboy, home on a visit. He refused to apologize, but offered to show the boys how they fight out west. He drew a bowie knife and the Shamokinites were not backward in accepting the challenge. A pitched battle followed. A number of Trevorton men joined hands with the Missourian, and chairs and bar fixtures were used as weapons. The Shamokinites finally managed to escape in their sleighs after the bar room had been wrecked and the fight transferred to the street. Lytle was knocked senseless with a brick. Officers from Trevorton this morning came to Shamokin and served warrants on a number of participants in the struggle. All those who were in the Trevorton faction are also under arrest.

ANOTHER WORLD'S FAIR FIRE.

Colonade Burned by Incendiaries Yesterday, Endangering Other Buildings.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Fire yesterday destroyed the grand colonnade between the Agricultural building and Machinery hall, at Jackson park. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars. At one time the destruction of the two adjoining structures seemed inevitable. Everything points to incendiarism.

The fire occurred near the same place which was twice ignited, presumably by fire-bugs, last week. It was discovered by a guard, who first noticed a thin volume of smoke curling around one of the pillars. The fire had made such progress that he was unable to extinguish it unaided, and he turned in an alarm. Owing to the snow it was difficult to get at the box and considerable valuable time was lost in this way.

The first firemen who arrived found the colonnade a mass of flame. The heavy air caused the sparks to fly low, and the snow in the vicinity was showered with cinders. Many of these were falling on the big buildings, but were prevented from doing any serious damage to the roofs by reason of the snow. The fire, however, was spreading rapidly along the colonnade, particularly toward Machinery Hall, and it soon became evident that unless some extraordinary effort was made the magnificent palace of mechanic arts would succumb to the encroaching flames. The ends of the hose lines were dropped into the canal, and in a few minutes a half-dozen engines were pumping water on the burning colonnade. After a half hour's hard work the Agricultural building and Machinery hall were declared to be out of danger and the streams were concentrated upon the burning colonnade. The result was soon apparent; and in a little while the fire was completely under control. Several handsome bits of animal statuary on the colonnade were destroyed.

Twenty men from Fire Marshal O'Malley's company, several volunteers from the tug Fire Queen, and Capt. Sanderson of the Columbian guards had a narrow escape from an awful death during the fire. Company 93 of the fire department, several volunteers from the fire tug in the harbor, the Fire Queen, were in the center of the upper floor, and Capt. Sanderson was still beyond them. A sudden burst of fire and for a moment the second floor on each side of them was wrapped in flames. The walls were like tinder and, as in the Cold Storage building fire, the flames in a moment passed up and beyond the men, seeming to jump the story in a lightning bound.

Fire Marshal O'Malley was quick to act. He sounded the retreat and not a second too soon. As the men, in response to his call, clattered over the ice-covered floor in their mad rush for safety the center of the building fell in with a crash behind them. Then, as they crowded down the stairs, one on top of another, and staggered out of the building, the side walls fell in with a deafening sound behind them. It was at first believed that some one was lost in the ruins and a speedy roll-call was made, with the gratifying result that every member answered to his name. Fire Marshal O'Malley said that it was about the closest call his company had ever had and he was extremely thankful they escaped.

Col. Rice of the Columbian Guard was one of the interested spectators of the fire, and was not backward in ascribing the blaze to incendiaries.

"The frequency of these fires," he said, "convinces me that an attempt is being made to destroy the buildings, but why is a mystery. Whoever is doing the work has come to the conclusion that the safest and surest plan is to set the columns on fire.

GRIP KNOCKED OUT BY ODOROUS PILLS.

DR. LESLIE E. KEELEY ANNOUNCES A SURE REMEDEY.

Asafetida a Certain Specific—No Chance of Failure If Taken According to Directions—Will Even Break Up Many of the Complications Resulting From the Disease.

Janesville has more than its share of grip this winter and a cure will be welcome. Dr. Leslie E. K eley of "bi-chloride fame states positively that asfetida will knock the Russian malada every time.

"No person need die of grip," he says. "Not only that, but no one need ever be sick enough from grip to nave to go to bed or quit his usual occupation. Asafetida in doses of sixteen grains, administered four times a day, will completetey break up the worst case of grip at any stage of its development. Not only will the asafetida cure the grip in its primary form, but it will break up many of the complications arising from it. It is as absolute a specific for grip as quinine is for ague.

"I do not claim any particular credit as a discoverer in this case. My opinion as to the value of asafetida as a cure is based on three years' experience with it for that purpose. When the grip first came westward three years ago we had our proportion of it among the patients at Dwight. There was a good deal of it, in fact, and it became necessary to find a prompt remedy for it. I began the use of assafetida for my patients I found the most satisfactory results. Not in a single case have I been disappointed in the action of the medicine. In all the attacks of grip among our people at Dwight we did not lose a case. I am satisfied that asifetida taken in good-sized doses and continuously, is a specific for the grip and its complications.

"A particularly valuable quality of this specific is its cheapness, simplicity and harmlessness. You cannot take too much of it. No matter how many grains you take a day it will not hurt you. You need no physician's prescription to get it. At any drug store you can get four-grain asifetida pills. After you get them take four of them four times a day, making sixteen pills, or sixty-four grains of asafetida to be taken each day.

Buckwheat declined at 55 to 75 cents Barley continues in good demand at 43 to 45 cents for choice and 35 to 40 cents for common to fair quality. STORIES THAT DO TO TELL.

At the book counter in a New York store someone asked, "Have you 'Feathers, Fur and Fins?'" "No,' was the reply, "but we have 'Huckleberry Fin.'" At another counter the purchases of an old lady from the country amounted to twenty-three cents. Hesitatingly, she half proffered a quarter, saying, "Can you change this?"

Cardinal Richelieu once listened to an earnest sermon by a shoemaker. The man was simple and unaffected, and apparently not at all dismayed by the presence of the cardinal. "How could you preach to me with so much confidence?" Richelieu asked him in evident surprise, "Monseigneur," replied the shoemaker, "I learned my sermon by reciting it to a field of cabbage-heads in the midst of which was one red one, and this practice enabled me to preach to you."

Some little French-Canadian children were discussing a very important matter with some of their Yankee neighbors from "over the line." The French children are in the habit of putting their shoes on the hearth instead of hanging up their stockings on the night before Christmas, and the little Vermonters naturally thought this a strange custom. "Anyway," said one of the Canadian girls, "shoes are a great deal nicer than stockings to get bottles of perfumery in; because if it breaks and spills it can't run out."

General Horace Porter always tells a good story when story telling is in order, as it was at the Lotus club dinner to Henry Irving in Boston. General Porter allowed that he was always a little bashful when called upon to speak in the presence of Englishmen, particularly after the experience of three friends of his in London. They had been invited to a swell reception in the West End and when they arrived they were met by a flunky of gigantic stature, with nose high in the air. "Names, please," he said, and the spokesman replied modestly: "General Badeau, Colonel Grant and Colonel Cook." With imposing stride the flunky advanced to the doors, threw them wide open and announced: "General Banjo, Colonel Drunk and the colonel's cook."

"What on earth got into the organist at Ethel's wedding? He played a funeral march as the bride and groom marched down the aisle." "He was one of Ethel's list of rejected."

"While a man rarely marries his first love," said the philosopher, "I notice that he is pretty well recompensed for her loss by the satisfaction he gets in talking about her to his wife."

The late Alfred W. Shield, of Richmond, Va., has left his farm, with all its stock, improvements, etc., to his two colored servants, and stocks and bonds valued at $18,000 to the university of Virginia.

Mrs. Caroline Romney, besides other patented articles, has invented a cellular brickwork dinner pail. Cellular brickwork is made of clay, sawdust and asbestos, and is warranted to keep food hot for half a dozen hours.

Emperor William has taken steps to have the milk produced on his farms at Potsdam sold at Berlin. Carts bearing his name may be seen in the streets of the capital, the drivers of which retail the fluid to any one.

"Bishop," said a young Methodist preacher to his spiritual superior, "won't you give me some advice how to gain and keep the love of my congregation?" "Yes, brother," replied the divine, "when you marry select a woman from some other congregation than your own, and be sure that she is not handsome or stylish in her dress."

ALL SUBJECT TO PROSECUTION.

Town Boards Which Do Not Order Vaccination Violate the Law.

Several Rock county towns have failed to order the vaccination of school children.

Dr. Reeves, secretary of the state board of health, says that by such action the town boards lay themselves liable to a criminal prosecution and civil action for damages at the hands of any person who, in the event of small pox appearing in the schools of a town, shall feel agrieved of damages by the action of the town board in the obstruction and failure to co-operate with the order of the board.

He had not been bitten, but said an old woman had said mysterious words over him and that a red-eyed negro had forced something between his teeth. Some people said he had been bewitched.

Wearing the Grave.

In old age infirmities and weakness hasten to close the gap between us and the grave. Happily scientific research and pharmacal skill have allied themselves in furnishing us a reliable means of ameliorating the ailments incident to declining years, and of renewing waning physical energy. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a widely comprehensive remedy in disease, and an inestimable blessing to the elderly, the feeble and the convalescent. Rheumatic ailments, trouble with the kidneys and lumbago are among the more common ailments of the aged. These are effectually counteracted by the Bitters, which is likewise a prevention and curative of malarial complaints, dyspepsia, constipatin and biliousness. It is highly promotive of appetite, sleep and the acquisition of vigor.

TENNER LEFT MAUD TO HOLD THE BAG.

HAMILTON PORTRAIT CO. PROVES A CLEAN SWINDLE.

Twenty Orders Were Taken But None of These Were Filled and None Ever Would Have Been—Half Interest Sold For Two Hundred Dollars.

A week or so ago Rock county was canvassed by an agent who claimed to represent the "Hamilton Portrait Co." Hamilton isn't a good name to conjure by but this young man was very successful. He took nearly a score of orders for crayon portraits, winning the confidence of the people by explaining that he shouldn't ask for a cent of cash until the pictures were delivered. He worked about three days and then began to look around for a partner.

"Business is coming so fast I need somebody to help me out" he explained.

John Maud, a young Magnolia man, who has had some experience in canvassing thought there was a good opening, and arranged with Tenner, the agent, to buy a half interest for $200. He paid over his money early last week, so he informs a Janesville attorney, but has seen nothing of Tenner since. Nor can he get any word of the "Hamilton Portrait Co." The whole scheme was evidently arranged to sell out at the first opportunity.

"When the Flower Was In the Barrel".

Wife, do leave that tub a moment, with its reeking, stifling steam;
Oh, to have you take in washing, seems a horrid, fearful dream!
But you're brave and hopeful ever, don't know what it is to shirk
You have been our one salvation, now that I am out of work.
But you never did such drudgery, never till our fortune sank,
For the flower was in the barrel and the money in the bank.

Every morn I took my dinner, and with honest hopeful joy,
Went to work down at the factory, well content with my employ;
Every night, though often weary, I would meet you with a smile,
And our children's cheerfull chatter would the supper hour beguile.
Even now they know the difference, with their faces pinched and blank;
There's no flour now in the barrel and no money in the bank.

If the trouble now upon me were not in a measure due
To my own accursed folly, which I ne'er shall cease to rue,
I could bear it, but with thousands, deep-deluded, just like me,
I gave ear to blatant preachers of the free-trade sophistry:
And they told us that we workmen suffered wrongs and evils rank.
Though the flower was in the barrel, and the money in the bank.

So we voted for the party which they declared they'd do away.
With the ills the poor man suffered, and bring the glorious day
When the rich should cease to grind us, and prosperity would come,
And low prices fill with plenty every honest laborer's home.
Vain delusion! lying promise! But we have ourselves to thank
That no flour is in the barrel and no money in the bank.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION.

Among the recent inventions is a "short-hand typewriter," designed especially for rapid work.

A new idea is to have a bath tub on wheels. The tub can thus be filled and wheeled into a bedroom, where the bath can be taken.

The development of gas and gasoline engines in this country has been so great that many believe it is only a question of time when they will supersede steam engines for the generation of the electric current.

A leading Pittsburg glass company has invented an innovation that, it is claimed, will revolutionize the manufacturing of pressed glassware. The powerful force of compressed air is ingeniously applied to the manipulation of the presses, which heretofore have only been operated by a huge lever, which the operator must pull back and throw his weight upon. The new device is simple in construction and, it is estimated will reduce the cost of producing pressed ware seventy-five per cent.

At Berlin recently an abandoned warehouse was fitted out with fire resisting material, and, as a test, the building was fired. The Siemans fireproof glass stood the most satisfactory test. It resisted a temperature of 1,300 degrees C. for half an hour or more; bearing all manner of shocks and strains without suffering appreciable damage. As regards fireproof doors, nothing stood better than double oak covered with thin sheet iron, between which and the wood there would be a laver of asbestos cloth.

According to the Electrical Review a new device consists in providing a small socket casing, which is imbedded in the door frame directly adjacent to the latch. Within this casing is a miniature electric lamp of the incandescent form, and projecting slightly from the casing is a push-button, which, being pressed inward, closes the circuit and throws a strong illumination through the glazed opening directly upon the keyhole and its vicinity. The illumination is ample to enable the operator to select the proper key from a bunch and thus avoid annoying delay

ONE OR THE OTHER TO BE ROBBED.

Governor Peck, Attorney General O'Connor, R. M. Bashford, J. M. Clancy, J. B. Doe and other of the roster defendants may declare that they never intended to have 25,000 sets of rosters, or any other number, printed, and intended all the time to withhold from the contractor the copy for the rosters and cancel the contract after they had used it to raise the money needed to pay the Madison Times' debts. This theory of it would afford a sufficient explanation of the conduct of the defendants without involving the state treasury. No other theory will. They either intended to have the rosters printed and thus loot the state treasury, or they intended the contract should be used to inveigle the plaintiffs into a trap and hold them up for the money needed to pay the Times' debts. Says the Madison Democrat after referring to these points: "They might have intended to bleed both the plaintiffs and the state but it is absolutely certain that they did intend to raise the money from one source or the other or from both."

WANTS TO LOAN AT 2 PER CEMT.

People used to hear all about money that "Honest" John Hunner was turning into the state treasury. They never knew of the money he was taking out.

When the responsibility of the bondsmen of the ex-state treasurers was under discussion, the legislature refused to accept even 3 per cent. interest on the judgments against them and compelled them to pay five per cent.

This was about the time that these same state depositors let the Clinton bank have $8,000 that Banker Woodard could make a cash loan to Governor Peck's Madison Times. It was about this time that the Dows, at Stoughton, have $10,000 of cash at three per cent. to appease them for the $10,000 they had put up for the roster contract and could not get back. As Robe Dow testified, he told the governor's private secretary that he must either have his money back or $10,000 out of the state treasury, and the governor's private secretary told him he could have it out of the treasury and he got it out of state treasury the next day. The state treasury must have been pretty hard up about that time, judging from a letter written to the bondsmen in Oshkosh urging them to send along something on that judgment, although the fact was, that judgment was drawing five per cent. interest so long as it remained unpaid and the state could get only three per cent. out of the money at most. But in the pressure which Dows and others made upon the state funds, the reform gang were in a white heat for more cash, and more cash at once, refusing bonds that would have drawn 4½ per cent. interest and regardless of the fact that the judgments were drawing five per cent. interest. Now the reform administration pleads much money on hand and hard times in excuse for permitting the ring's pet banks to have this money at two per cent.

DISGRACE TO BE A DEMOCRAT

It doesn't matter what part of the country a democrat strikes this year he finds himself in bad company. Here in Wisconsin we have the roster scandal to make us proud of our rulers while the situation in two states at the east has been such as to make any decent man wonder how in the world the democratic organization ever retains in its membership anybody outside of the actual criminal classes. New Jersey is one of these commonwealths and New York is the other and in both the open disregard of law and the wishes of the people has been almost unparallelled.

Either the roster jobbers meant to swindle the state out of $70,000 or they meant to swindle Tracy, Dow & Co. out of $20,000 by unloading a contract which was never to be carried out. Which horn of the dilemma will the defense accept?

NEWS OF THE DAY.

AN ITEM OF INTEREST TO EVERYBODY.

This Will Please You More Than Any Common Event—Read It Carefully and Ponder Over It Long and Earnestly.

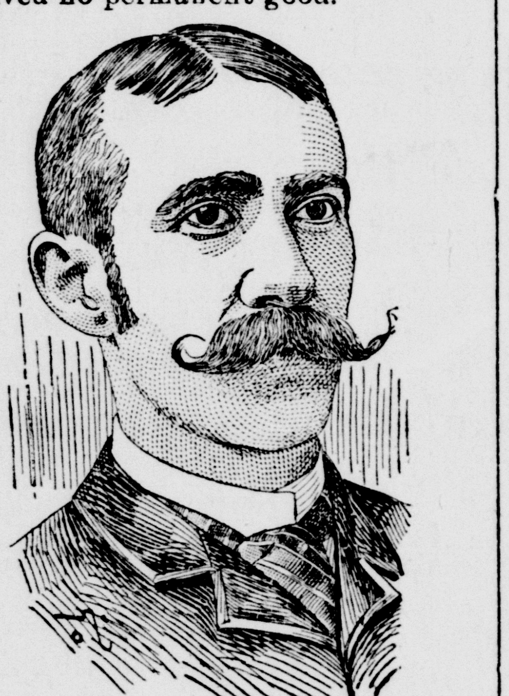
The most important news of the day is that which most nearly concerns us all.

In these times of business anxiety, the constant nervous strain on the system has a fearful effect upon health. If you are not in perfect health you cannot hope to win success.

This fact was fully appreciated by by Mr. Nye L. Smith, of Montpelier. Vt., a well known and respected business and society man.

"A year ago last spring," he says, "I was completely run down and was very nervous indeed. I am of a very nervous disposition. I had no appetite and was unable to sleep, and when I rose in the morning I was as when I went to rest. My digestive organs were completely unstrung, whatever I ate distressed me, becoming sour.

'I exercised extreme care in eating, and even then I had to suffer always after my meals. I worked in pain all the time while suffering from my condition. This state of affairs lasted some time, and while I was trying various kinds of medicine from which I derived no permanent good.



MR. NYE L. SMITH.

"At this time a friend recommended to me Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I had very little faith in it for I had used so many other medicines that did me no good, but was willing to try anything. I got a bottle and had not taken more than half of it before I began to feel much better, and finding so much benefit, I kept on.

"I have taken in all six bottles and am now completely cured. I have not lost a day since. My work is now easily done. I eat well, sleep well, am not nervous, digestion is good and all I attribute to the blessings of God and Dr. Greene's remedy. I have always recommended it and shall continue to do so.

Mr. Smith saw that his health was failing, and he felt that he was losing his hold both upon business and society. He went bravely to work to get well by taking Dr. Greene's blood and nerve remedy.

If for any reason your health is not just what it should be, if there is a weakness somewhere, take this wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and it will bring back to you the health and strength which you have lost. Especially do you need it now in preparing your system for the spring. It is purely vegetable and harmless and is the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted at his office free, personally or by letter.

FOOTING FOR UNIONS.

Judge Caldwell Gives Them Standing in Court.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 15.—The application of the Union Pacific receivers to Judge Caldwell for an order harmonizing the contradictory opinions of Judge Dundy at Omaha and Judge Hallet at Denver on the question of the wages of the employes and generally on the relations of the receivers to organized labor was made yesterday by G. J. H. Thurston, counsel for the receivers, and there resulted such an exposition of the rights of labor by Judge Caldwell as thoroughly awoke every one in hearing.

Judge Caldwell said he could not interfere just now. The receivers had begun in the wrong way. He would recommend that Mr. Thurston go back to Omaha and get the Dundy order rescinded, and then prepare a new schedule of wages and give the employes a chance to come into court by the officers of their respective labor organizations and have a friendly conference with the court of receivers. Judge Caldwell said to Mr. Thurston: "Go back to Omaha and revoke that order and I will take your case. Prepare and advertise your schedule and give the men notice, and I think that sixty days might not be unreasonable, and I will come to Omaha and hold the conference with your receivers and the representatives of the labor societies, and we will see if we can not agree upon a schedule that will be just to the employes and will be such as the receivers can afford to pay."

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

"What made Spendthrift promise his bride that as long as he had a dollar she could have fifty cents of it." "Because she had all the money."

"This is a somewhat free translation," said the literary young woman in the book store. "No, miss," replied the new clerk. "It cost a dollar and a half."

"I don't see how you can afford to give a pair of rubbers with every pair of shoes." "My friend, there is nothing equal to a pair of rubbers for getting away with shoes; see?"

Customer—Among the other items on this bill you've got "four and a half hours' work." You worked just exactly four hours by the clock. Paperhanger—Yes, sir, but it took me half an hour to make out the bill.

"I have no objection, Tommy, to your playing with the rich banker's son," said the poor widow, "if he is a good boy. But you don't toady to him, do you?" "Yep," answered Tommy. "Me and him plays leap-frog."

"I should think you'd miss your watch dreadfully," said the confidential friend, sympathetically. "Oh, no," replied the philosopher, serenely. "When I want to know what time it is I just take out the pawn ticket and look at the nearest clock."

Anxious Mother—I wish, Susan, that when you give baby a bath you would be careful to ascertain whether the water is at the proper temperature. Susan—Oh, don't you worry about that, ma'am; I don't need no 'mometers. If the little one turns red, the water is too hot; if it turns blue, it's too cold.

She had called at her husband's office and she told him that in case he got home first he would find the key where she had hidden it on the porch. He did get home first and he found this notice in his wife's handwriting in a conspicuous place on the front door: 'Dear Fred: I have hidden the key so that no one can find it but you. It is under the left corner of the door mat."

A Whimsical Chap.

Once tried to quote Bulwer (was it Bulwer?) and said, "Great aches from little toe corns grow," and altho' he didn't exactly quote he got there, got there as it were, with both feet, at least with a part of both.

"Toe be or not to be," said Shakespeare, (or Bacon?) and he toe, may not be far off. Foot it over hill and dale, 'til you are weary and footsore, and you cannot find such bargains as we offer in building sites, Homesites, for on these and the prices of the same and terms, too, we always did "toe the mark." For some reason we are this spring getting onto the goods, the prices and the terms with both feet. And so, with Hamlet we soliloquize: "The wonder grows", why people are not "up in arms" when the prices we quote are looked into. You can get a home, if you wish, so long as we are in the business; hard times don't count. If you are not earning so much money as you did last year, we will meet you; it don't matter.

Homesites and Homes are our fad; to help people get 'em is what we are on earth for, this time.

The main secret, we suppose, why we always get the major part of the real estate trade going, is that we own a large part of the property that we offer. Another part of the secret is, we deal every time so that our customer sends to us his or her friend when they want to deal.

Our beginnings here were not large, but so true it is that "Great oaks from little acorns grow," that the "birds of the air" have their homes,—build their nests,—in the result of our grain of mustard seed. Come over and roost with us. Yours very truly,

GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.

COL. CLARK SAYS HE WILL NOT TESTIFY.

HIS ATTORNEY DEFIES THE COURT COMMISSIONER.

When Questioned About Roster Case He Flatly Declines to Answer—Claims He Is a Resident of Milwaukee County and Cannot Be Compelled to Give Evidence Here.

Colonel C. L. Clark's anxiety to testify in the roster case all faded into thin air when he was brought into court. Instead of the anxiety to "tell all he knew" which has been ascribed to him, he positively refused to testify. Grounds of objection were urged one after another and overruled until four had been put aside.

Then the main issue was reached and Colonel Clark flatly refused to answer. He refused to obey Court Commissioner John Nichols' order and the commissioner at once prepared a statement that the witness was guilty of contempt of court and called upon the Dane county circuit court to punish him for that contempt.

A roomful of very interested spectators crowded into the commissioner's little office. Of the defendants there were C. L Clark, Assistant Attorney General J. M. Clancy and of the plaintiffs W. J. P. McFail and George Dow, Jr. and W. A, Tracy. Attorneys John M. Olin and M. G. Jeffris appeared for the plaintiffs and E. M. Hyzer, R. H. Chynoweth, G. G. Sutherland and W. A. Gibson for the defendants. Chynoweth appeared for Clancy, Sutherland for J. B. Doe and Gibson for Governor Peck.

Objection was made to the examination's proceeding, Colonel Clark's attorney, John Winans being kept away by sickness. Commissioner Nichols overruled this objection. Attorney E. M. Hyzer appeared in lieu of Mr. Winans and had his protest entered on the minutes of the court.

Further objections was made against the testimony being taken down for the court by Miss Lena Bresee, stenographer for Dunwiddie, Golden & Wheeler. It was held that Mr. Dunwiddie was of counsel for plaintiffs and it was demanded that the testimony be written out in long hand by the judge.

Considerable time was spent in sparring for time. There was manifest unwillingness, on Mr. Hyzer's part, to permit Colonel Clark to take the stand.

Commissioner Nichols overruled the objection as to Miss Bresee and ordered her to continue her report.

The next objection was against the swearing of Colonel Clark under any circumstances, the claim being that he was no longer a resident of Rock county. An affidavit of Colonel Clark was filed, stating that he is now and has been ever since September 5, 1893 a resident of Milwaukee.

Where the Witness Lives.

"In behalf of Colonel Clark I insist that this examination be not held anywhere except in the county where he resides."

Attorney Jeffris insisted that Colonel Clark be sworn, offering to prove Colonel Clark's residence in Rock county by his own testimony.

Commissioner Nichols ordered the witness sworn. Attorney Hyzer at once insisted that the examination begin upon the question of Colonel Clark's residence. Commissioner Nichols refused to make this order.

Attorney Hyzer then got down to business.

'Counsel for the defendant instructs the witness" he said "that an affidavit having been filed before this commissioner that he is not a resident of the county of Rock, and is and has been a resident of the city of Milwaukee, state of Wisconsin, and has been at all times up to this time since the fifth day of September, 1893, and witness having been sworn and the court commissioner having been requested by counsel for defendant to grant permission to examine the witness touching his residence, and to thereby show by his own testimony that he is not a resident of Rock county, and is a resident of Milwaukee county, and further offering to permit the commissioner having overruled and refused to grant the request or to permit the counsel for the plaintiff to examine the witness on that point. Counsel for the defendant now instructs the witness to answer no questions put to him by counsel for the plaintiff.

Colonel Clark Refuses to Answer.

Attorney Olin—Mr. Clark are you one of the defendants in this action?

Colonel Clark—On the instruction of counsel I decline to answer.

Attorney Jeffris—Will the court commissioner order the witness to answer.

The Court—Yes sir.

Attorney Hyzer—We except.

Attorney Olin—Mr. Clark, you are ordered to answer that question.

Colonel Clark—I decline.

Attorneys for plaintiff demanded that the commissioner enforce his order.

"We give warning to court, attorneys for plaintiffs and plaintiffs that Colonel Clark's commitment will be at their peril."

A recess was taken while the course to be taken by plaintiffs was considered.

When the examination was resumed ten minutes later there was a change in the line of questioning. Attorney Olin began an inquiry as to Colonel Clark's residence. Witness testified that he had been living for about half the time since December in this city. He still held a house in Milwaukee on a twelve-months lease and his furniture was still in the house. He took posession of the house in October 1893, and had paid one months rent. Witness admitted that he had been subpoenoed three times before Rock county courts in the roster case and had taken pay as witness. This was the first time he had made objection on the ground of his legal residence.

He had no business in Milwaukee since November 1893, and was not in business there at the present time. Witness admitted that he had been a residence of Janesville from 1856 until September 3, 1893, although he had lived three years in Madison with his family in the meantime.

Never Said Madison Was His Home.

"All this time you and your family were living in Madison, then, you did not change your residence from Janesville," said Attorney Olin. "It was only when you occupied a house in Milwaukee for one month that your residence changed?"

"When I lived in Madison I did not intend to make that city my permanent home. I do mean to make Milwaukee my home and my permanent place of business."

Three quarters of an hour was spent in this inquiry.

Then was begun on the original lines.

Attorney Olin turned from his questions as to Colonel Clark's residence and turned to the case proper.

"Were you private secretary to Governor Peck?" he asked.

Colonel Clark refused to answer.

"We demand that the commissioner compel this man to answer, and if he refuses order him committed," said Attorney Olin. He denied the pretence that Colonel Clark was no longer a resident of Rock county as the basest sham that has ever been urged in a court of justice. He spoke at considerable length on the question.

Attorney Hyzer followed with the declaration that plaintiffs had made a manifest blunder and had called Colonel Clark into court in a county where he had no legal residence. He had appeared before other Rock county examining officers without making this objection, but this did not bar him from making it at this time.

"The fact that the plaintiff in a case makes a blunder does not bind the defendant to give warning of it to his own injury" urged Mr. Hyzer.

Commissioner Nichols ruled that the witness must answer.

"By instruction of my counsel I refuse to answer," said Colonel Clark.

An adjournment for dinner was taken at this point, arguments as to Colonel Clark's commitment being deferred until 2:30 o'clock.

Held Him Guilty of Contempt.

Commissioner Nichols read his rulings at 3 o'clock. It recited that Colonel C. L. Clark, a resident of Janesville and not of Milwaukee, had refused to answer questions properly put to him, and it called upon the circuit court of Dane county to punish him for contempt of court. This ended the proceedings.

The statement of the commissioner will be certified to the Dane county court at once and that court asked to take action.

This will not end the effort to secure Col. Clark's testimony, however. Notice was served on him this afternoon to appear and give testimony before a Milwaukee commissioner next Wednesday.

Friendly Advice.

We have a "little friend" in the city who seems to be terribly aroused about our business. He is continually talking about the crowds we are having and the large advertisiag contracts we are making. We have a large contract for advertising with the Gazette and are glad of it. When we advertise, and that is all the time, we place our advertisements in the paper that reaches the largest number of people, and the result is, we have the largest business. Since we commenced this great sale of clothing our sales have more than doubled, almost tribbled. Our cut prices are worrying them; they don't know what to do about it. Our "little friend" watches the crowd coming to us, and dreams about it. He cannot sleep. He has the nightmare and awakes only to find us selling the clothing. Don't be discouraged, my "little friehd." We will furnish the people of Janesville and Rock county all the clothing they want at 40 per cent. less than you can sell it. You may keep your clothing; nobody wants ti. ROSENFELD, the Originator.

Another case of small pox was reported to Health Officer Robinson this afternoon. It is in the family of C. M. As a precaution against small pox, Warden Lamoreux of Waupun prison no longer admits visitors. He has also ordered that clothing for prisoners about to be discharged must come from known dealers and that newspapers and periodicals are also contraband if not received direct from the publishers and newsdealers.

MANY Janesville people took advantage of the opportunity to get a genuine "German supper" which was given by the ladies of St. John's church at the store lately occupied by Cyrus Miner on Main street. The menu was varied and excellent and the patronage was correspondingly large.

THE GRANGE HALL STILL STANDING.

COUNTY BOARD ORDER A PAYMENT TO BE MADE.

Bill For $419.10 For the Boarding of the Ashton Jury Is Ordered Paid—Other Business Done and the Session Will Probably End Tonight.

A bill of $419.10, from Miller & Paddock of the Myers house, for boarding the Ashton jury staggered many members of the county board this morning when the bill confronted that body, but the amount was allowed. A few other bills were considered, when the special order, that relating to the payment for the new county farm, was taken up. Considerable discussion followed, and the whole matter was disposed of by directing orders for $38,311.95 to be drawn in favor of the Barker's on presentation of the deed in accordance with contract. This would indicate that Grange hall is likely to remain until the county adopts some other means for its removal. Very little other business remains for consideration and the session will undoubtedly conclude this evening.

Grant Fisher's house, on his farm in the town of Center, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. Neighbors saved the contents.

SOMEWHAT HUMOROUS.

It Was Short.

A man lost a bag of potatoes off his wagon as he came into the city yesterday morning, and, as he did not become aware of his loss till he had reached the market, he felt that it was useless to go back in search. He was feeling the loss very keenly until he suddenly realized that there was a bright side to it. Then his face put on a smile and he chuckled:

"Come to think of it, it was one of them two-bushel bags which didn't have but a bushel and a half in, and the finder will git swindled out of a half bushel, at least!"—Detroit Free Press.

He—Yes; but he got them at my store. And, as he never intended to pay for them, of course it is the same as though I gave them to you.

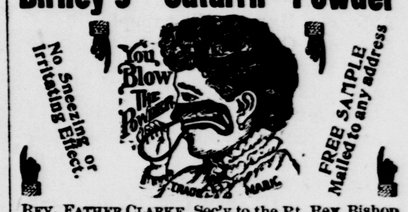
Catarrh
AND
COLD IN THE HEAD
relieved instantly by one application of
Birney's Catarrh Powder



REV. FATHER CLARKE, Sec'y to the Rt. Rev. Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, writes;

GENTLEMEN:—I cannot say enough for your Powder. It has cured me of an aggravated attack of catarrh when nothing else could help me. Am delighted with it. All my friends to whom I administered samples are quite enthusiastic over it. The good sisters speak most encouragingly of their use of it in the Hospital under their care. I will do anything to speak a good word for the remedy to help others who are suffering.

M. E. FERGUSON, Custodian U. S. Appraiser's Stores, Chicago, writes:

GENTLEMEN:—Being almost entirely deaf for a number of years past and getting no relief from many so-called cures which I tried, was induced by a friend to try Dr. Birney's Catarrhal Powder for my deafness. Have recovered my hearing entirely, so that I can now hear a watch tick plainly, it being held 18 inches from my ear I look upon it as a positive cure for deafness and have recommended its use to many of my friends and can say I have never heard of a case where it has failed to relieve.

IX.

That night, or very early next morning, there was pandemonium at the barracks. It was clear, still, beautiful. A soft April wind was drifting up from the lower coast, laden with the perfume of sweet olive and orange blossoms. Mrs. Cram, with one or two lady friends and a party of officers, had been chatting in low tone upon their gallery until after eleven, but elsewhere about the moonlit quadrangle all was silence when the second relief was posted. Far at the rear of the walled inclosure, where, in deference to the manners and customs of war as observed in the good old days whereof our seniors tell, the sutler's establishment was planted within easy hailing distance of the guard-house, there was still the sound of modified revelry by night, and poker and whisky punch had gathered their devotees in the grimy parlors of Mr. Finkbein, and here the belated ones tarried until long after midnight, as most of them were bachelors and had no better halves, as had Doyle, to fetch them home "out of the wet." Cram and his lieutenants, with the exception of Doyle, were never known to patronize this establishment, whatsoever they might do outside. They had separated before midnight, and little Pierce, after his customary peep into Waring's preserves, had closed the door, gone to his own room to bed and to sleep. Ferry, as battery officer of the day, had made the rounds of the stables and gun shed about one o'clock, and had encountered Capt. Kinsey, of the infantry, coming in from his long tramp through the dew-wet field, returning from the inspection of the sentry-post at the big magazine.

"No news of poor Sam yet, I suppose?" said Kinsey, sadly, as the two came strolling in together through the rear gate.

"Nothing whatever," was Ferry's answer. "We cannot even form a conjecture, unless he, too, has been murdered. Think of there being a warrant out for his arrest—for him, Sam Waring!"

"Well," said Kinsey, "no other conclusion could be well arrived at, unless that poor brute Doyle did it in a drunken row. Pills says he never saw a man so terror-stricken as he seems to be. He's afraid to leave him, really, and Doyle's afraid to be alone—thinks the old woman may get in."

"She has no excuse for coming, captain," said Ferry. "When she told Cram she must see her husband to-day, that she was out of money and starving, the captain surprised her by handing her fifty dollars, which is much more than she'd have got from Doyle. She took it, of course, but that isn't what she wanted. She wants to get at him. She has money enough."

"Yes, that woman's a terror, Ferry. Old Mrs. Murtagh, wife of my quartermaster sergeant, has been in the army twenty years, and says she knew her well—knew all her people. She comes from a tough lot, and they had a bad reputation in Texas in the old days. Doyle's a totally different man since she turned up, Cram tells me. Hello! here's 'Pills the Less,'" he suddenly exclaimed, as they came opposite the west gate leading to the hospital. "How's your patient, Doc?"

"Well, he's sleeping at last. He seems worn out. It's the first time I've left him; but I'm used up and want a few hours' sleep. There isn't anything to drink in the room, even if he should wake, and Jim is sleeping or lying there by him."

"Oh, he'll do all right now, I reckon," said the officer of the day, cheerfully. "Go and get your sleep. The old woman can't get at him unless she bribes my sentries or rides the air on a broomstick, like some other old witches I've read of. Ferry sleeps in the adjoining room, anyhow, so he can look out for her. Good night, Doc." And so, on they went, glancing upward at the dim light just showing through the window-blinds in the gable end of Doyle's quarters, and halting at the foot of the stairs.

"Come over and have a pipe with me, Ferry," said the captain. "It's too beautiful a night to turn in. I want to talk to you about Waring, anyhow. This thing weighs on my mind."

"Done with you, for an hour anyhow!" said Ferry. "Just wait a minute till I run up and get my baccy."

Presently down came the young fellow again, meerschaum in hand, the moonlight glinting on his slender figure, so trim and jaunty in the battery dress. Kinsey looked him over with a smile of soldierly approval and a whimsical comment on the contrast between the appearance of this young artillery sprig and that of his own stout personality, clad as he was in a bulging blue flannel sack coat, only distinguishable in cut and style from civilian garb by its having brass buttons and a pair of tarnished old shoulder straps. Ferry was a swell. His shell jacket fitted like wax. The Russian shoulder knots of twisted gold were of the handsomest make. The riding breeches top boots and spurs were such that even Waring could not criticise. His saber gleamed in the moonbeams, and Kinsey's old leather-covered sword looked dingy by contrast. His belt fitted trim and taut, and was polished as his boot-tops; Kinsey's sank down over the left hip, and was worn brown. The sash Ferry sported as battery officer of the day was draped, West Point fashion, over the shoulder and around the waist, and accurately knotted and looped; Kinsey's old war-worn crimson net was slung higgledy-piggledy over his broad chest.

WHERE TWO SLATS HAD BEEN SHOVED ASIDE.

"What swells you fellows are, Ferry!" he said, laughingly, as the youngster came dancing down. "Even old Doyle gets out here in his scarlet plume occasionally and puts us doughboys to shame. What's the use in trying to make such a rig as ours look soldierly? If it were not for the brass buttons our coats would make us look like parsons and our hats like monkeys. As for this undress, all that can be said in its favor is you can't spoil it even by sleeping out on the levee in it, as I am sometimes tempted to do. Let's go out there now."

It was perhaps quarter of two when they took their seats on the wooden bench under the trees, and, lighting their pipes, gazed out over the broad sweeping flood of the Mississippi, gleaming like a silvered shield in the moonlight. Far across at the opposite shore the low line of orange groves and plantation houses and quarters was merged in one long streak of gloom, relieved only at intervals by twinkling light. Farther up-stream, like dozing sea-dogs, the fleet of monitors lay moored along the bank, with the masts and roofs of Algiers dimly outlined against the crescent sweep of lights that marked the levee of the great southern metropolis, still prostrate from the savage buffeting of the war, yet so soon to rouse from lethargy, resume her sway, and, stretching forth her arms, to draw once again to her bosom the wealth and tribute, tenfold augmented, of the very heart of the nation, until, mistress of the commerce of a score of states, she should rival even New York in the volume of her trade. Below them, away to the east towards English Turn, rolled the tawny flood, each ripple and eddy and swirling pool crested with silver—the twinkling lights at Chalmette barely distinguishable from dim, low-hanging stars. Midway the black hulk of some big ocean voyager was forging slowly, steadily towards them, the red light of the port side already obscured, the white and green growing with every minute more and more distinct, and, save the faint rustle of the leaves overhead, murmuring under the touch of the soft, southerly night wind, the splash of wavelet against the wooden pier, and the measured footfall of the sentry on the flagstone walk in front of the sally-port, not a sound was to be heard.

For awhile they smoked in silence, enjoying the beauty of the night, though each was thinking only of the storm that swept over the scene the Sunday previous and of the tragedy that was borne upon its wings. At last Kinsey shook himself together.

"Ferry, sometimes I come out here for a quiet smoke and think. Did it ever occur to you what a fearful force, what illimitable power, there is sweeping by us here night after night with never a sound?"

"Oh, you mean the Mississip," said Ferry, flippantly. "It would be a case of mops and brooms, I fancy, if she were to bust through the bank and sweep us out into the swamps."

"Exactly! that's in case she broke loose, as you say; but even when in the shafts, as she is now, between the levees, how long would it take her to sweep a fellow from here out into the gulf, providing nothing interposed to stop him?"

"Matter of simple mathematical calculation," said Ferry, practically. "They say it's an eight-mile current easy out there in the middle where she's booming. Look at that barrel scooting down yonder. Now, I'd lay a fiver I could cut loose from here at reveille and shoot the passes before taps and never pull a stroke. It's less than eighty miles down to the forts."

"Well, then, a skiff like that that old Anatole's blaspheming about losing wouldn't take very long to ride over that route, would it?" said Kinsey, reflectively.

"No, not if allowed to slide. But somebody'd be sure to put out and haul it in as a prize—flotsam and what-you-may-call-'em. You see these old niggers all along here with their skiffs tacking on to every bit of drift wood that's worth having."

"But, Ferry, do you think they'd venture out in such a storm as Sunday last?—think anything could live in it short of a decked ship?"

"No, probably not. Certainly not Anatole's boat."

"Well, that's just what I'm afraid of, and what Cram and Reynolds dread."

"Do they? Well, so far as that storm's concerned, it would have blown it down stream until it came to the big bend below here to the east. Then, by rights, it ought to have blown against the left bank. But every inch of it has been scouted all the way to quarantine. The whole river was filled with drift, though, and it might have been wedged in a lot of logs and swept out anyhow. Splendid ship, that! Who is she, do you suppose?"

The great black hull with its lofty tracery of masts and spars was now just about opposite the barracks, slowly and majestically ascending the stream.

"One of those big British freight steamers that moor there below the French market, I reckon. They seldom come up at night unless it's in the full of the moon, and even then they move with the utmost caution. See, she's slowing up now."

"Hello! Listen! What's that?" exclaimed Ferry, starting to his feet.

A distant, muffled cry. A distant shot. The sentry at the sally-port dashed through the echoing vault, then bang! came the loud roar of his piece, followed by the yell of:

"Fire! fire! The guard!"

With one spring Ferry was down the levee and darted like a deer across the road, Kinsey lumbering heavily after. Even as he sped through the stone-flagged way, the hoarse roar of the drum at the guard-house, followed instantly by the blare of the bugle from the battery quarters, sounded the stirring alarm. A shrill, agonized female voice was madly screaming for help. Guards and sentries were rushing to the scene, and flames were bursting from the front window of Doyle's quarters. Swift though Ferry ran, others were closer to the spot. Half a dozen active young soldiers, members of the infantry guard, had sprung to the rescue. When Ferry dashed up to the gallery he was just in time to stumble over a writhing and prostrate form, to help extinguish the blazing clothing of another, to seize his water bucket and douse its contents over a third—one yelling, the others stupefied by smoke—or something. In less time than it takes to tell it, daring fellows had ripped down the blazing shades and shutters, tossed them to the parade beneath, dumped a heap of soaked and smoking bedding out of the rear windows, splashed a few bucketfuls of water about the reeking room, and the fire was out. But the doctors were working their best to bring back the spark of life to two senseless forms, and to still the shrieks of agony that burst from the seared and blistered lips of Bridget Doyle.

While willing hands bore these scorched semblances of humanity to neighboring rooms and tender-hearted women hurried to add their ministering touch, and old Braxton ordered the excited garrison back to quarters and bed, he, with Cram and Kinsey and Ferry, made prompt examination of the premises. On the table two whisky bottles, one empty, one nearly full, that Dr. Potts declared were not there when he left at one. On the mantel a phial of chloroform, which was also not there before. But a towel soaked with the stifling contents lay on the floor by Jim's rude pallet, and a handkerchief half soaked, half consumed, was on the chair which had stood by the bedside among the fragments of an overturned kerosene lamp.

A quick examination of the patients showed that Jim, the negro, had been chloroformed and was not burned at all, that Doyle was severely burned and had probably inhaled flames, and that the woman was crazed with drink, terror and burns combined. It took the efforts of two or three men and the influence of powerful opiates to quiet her. Taxed with negligence or complicity on the part of the sentry, the sergeant of the guard repudiated the idea, and assured Col. Braxton that it was an easy matter for anyone to get either in or out of the garrison without encountering the sentry, and taking his lantern led the way to the hospital grounds by a winding footpath among the trees to a point in the high white picket fence where two slats had been shoved aside. Anyone coming along the street without could pass far beyond the ken of the sentry at the west gate, and slip in with the utmost ease, and once inside all that was necessary was to dodge possible reliefs and patrols. No sentry was posted at the gate through the wall that separated the garrison proper from the hospital grounds. Asked why he had not reported this, the sergeant smiled and said there were a dozen others just as convenient, so what was the use? He did not say, however, that he and his fellows had recourse to them night after night.

It was three o'clock when the officers' families got fairly settled down again and back to their beds, and the silence of night once more reigned over Jackson barracks. One would suppose that such a scene of terror and excitement was enough, and that now the trembling, frightened women might be allowed to sleep in peace; but it was not to be. Hardly had one of their number closed her eyes, hardly had all the flickering lights, save those at the hospital and guardhouse, been downed again, when the strained nerves of the occupants of the officers' quadrangle were jumped into mad jangling once more and all the barracks aroused a second time, and this, too, by a woman's shriek of horror.

Mrs. Conroy, a delicate, fragile little body, wife of a junior lieutenant of infantry occupying a set of quarters in the same building with, but at the opposite end from, Pierce and Waring, was found lying senseless at the head of the gallery stairs.

When revived, amid tears and tremblings and incoherent exclamations she declared that she had gone down to the big ice-chest on the ground-floor to get some milk for her nervous and frightened child and was hurrying noiselessly up the stairs again—the only means of communication between the first and second floors—when, face to face, in front of his door, she came upon Mr. Waring, or his ghost; that his eyes were fixed and glassy; that he did not seem to see her even when he spoke, for speak he did. His voice sounded like a moan of anguish, she said, but the words were distinct: "Where is my knife? Who has taken my knife?"

And then little Pierce, who had helped to raise and carry the stricken woman to her room, suddenly darted out on the gallery and ran along to the door he had closed four hours earlier. It was open. Striking a match, he hurried through into the chamber beyond, and there, face downward upon the bed, lay his friend and comrade Waring, moaning like one in the delirium of fever.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which is usually the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results by its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as far the best and only cure. Call upon your druggist for it.

A Tonic for The Times.

This store is versatile. Mr. Pessimist can get a bright and hopeful side of human life by mingling with the crowds that come and go through this great life center of Janesville. Yesterday was a great day with us, 25 overcoats sold. We knew those little fellows were mad. Let them remain mad and "roast" us all they want to, we like it. Why don't they Sell Clothing as Cheap as We do? Then they would not have time to send their spies into our store and watch us. Oh! But we are ripping it into them. Such prices:

An Overcoat for $2.50; Suits for $5.00; and our Spring Overcoats just received, for $7.00.

Can only be had at Rosenfeld's. Advertisements are not born here of imagination. We have something worth saying, worth reading, worth investigating. Therefore, we place it in the best medium and the people respond. French women are said to call their expected husbands their "futures". The present futures for 30 days of this great clothing sale are the best ever offered you, and some of them will appear each day.
We lead, the other fellows try to get into the procession with the boys who bring up the rear, but they are so obnoxious that even the boot-black's kick them out.
